

1. Las Arenas Spa Hotel

HISTORY: In the 19th century, a spa at Las Arenas beach to attract tourists and so that the Valencian bourgeoisie could take the dips in the sea recommended by doctors. The quality and good service, the music, the discretion, the distinguished ambience, etc., stood out alongside the two classic pavilions and the pavilion floating on the sea. More and more summer holidaygoers went to Las Arenas beach every year. This spa was partially destroyed during bombing in the Civil War.

Over the years, the spa area became popular and became the favourite of Valencians to spend an enjoyable day with their family. When the luxury Hotel Las Arenas was inaugurated, in 2006, the classic pavilions, the long-gone swimming pools and the competition springboard were reconstructed, immortalised by the poster artist Josep Renau.
